Miles Janes

Miles Janes is undertaking pupillage with the Business and Property group, under the supervision of David Mitchell.

Prior to starting pupillage, Miles read Law at Durham University. During his undergraduate degree Miles won the Palatinate Shield, the law school's top mooting prize, before being selected to represent Durham internationally at the Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot. After graduation, Miles furthered his studies at University College London via an LLM in International Commercial Law, achieving distinctions in every module and the highest grade in his cohort in International Commercial Litigation. Alongside his LLM studies, Miles was also paid by UCL Faculty of Laws to instruct fellow LLM and LLB students in oral advocacy in his role as Head Coach of the UCL Vis Moot Team.

Following his studies Miles worked as a Legal Assistant at Quinn Emanuel Urquhart & Sullivan LLP, gaining exposure to a range of high value commercial matters including an eight-week trial in the Technology and Construction Court in relation to the award of the 4th National Lottery licence. Miles also worked as a paralegal in a leading private wealth team, reflecting his interests in both commercial and traditional chancery litigation, and was instructed as a freelance County Court advocate in a range of small claims debt recovery matters.

Outside of the law Miles is an avid musician and has played the guitar since he was 7 years old. Miles also greatly enjoys hiking and distance walking, completing the Camino de Santiago in the months prior to commencing pupillage.
