

Mark Radburn

Call: 1991

Described as 'A very impressive advocate indeed', Mark acts in multitrack cases of all levels and complexity and at all stages of the claim, from initial advice, interlocutory and case management hearings, conferences up to trial and settlement meetings. He often deals with substantial value claims and has been instructed on many cases against silks without a leader.

Mark has an extremely approachable manner and is excellent at putting clients at ease.

He is always ready to chat with solicitors who wish to discuss a case in its early stages, without obligation.

Mark's current caseload covers the full spectrum up to and including the most serious injuries, including:-

- Brain injury
- Spinal injury
- General orthopaedic injury
- Neurological injury/ paralysis
- Pain disorders
- Psychiatric injury for both primary and secondary victims
- Amputations

Having served in the Armed Forces Mark has developed a substantial practice over the years dealing with cases involving forces/ex-forces personnel. He "speaks their language".

With over 25 years at the Bar, he has extensive experience of personal injury litigation in all areas, including: –

- Workplace injury
- Road traffic collisions (with particular experience relating to catastrophic injury/ fatal accident claims arising from motorcycle collisions)
- Occupiers liability
- Defective premises
- Highways Act claims involving both pedestrians and vehicles – Sports injury
- Animals Act claims (particularly claims involving horses)
- Fatal accidents
- Inquests
